

Letitia McPhedran

Artist Biography

Letitia grew up in Philadelphia. After attending Wellesley College, she taught studio art and art history at Brimmer & May, a private school in Brookline MA. She studied art for two years at Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts, then taught art at Cherry Hill High School in New Jersey, and showed at The Print Club in Philadelphia. Since then, she has been in about thirty group, invitational, juried and national shows, winning first prize at the CT Watercolor Society Show in 2001. Letitia Had three years as Artist-in-Residence at Wiawaka Center for Women, Lake George, NY in 2017, 2018 and 2019.